

removing the "established business relationship" is bad for our organization. We plan continuing medical education activities for physicians and only send a fax about our conferences when the person calls and requests it. If we have to get written permission first, this would not allow ample time, in many instances, for the physicians to be able to attend our conference.